Working farm

Explore life on the farm

Bring your wellies and get ready to enjoy the museum inside and out. Explore the museum galleries (see plan overleaf) then set off for the farm. The walk from the museum to the farm takes about ten minutes. While the Farm Explorer tractor-trailer isn't running, we've created one-way routes so you can get there and back safely.

As you walk around the farm steading, look out for our pigs, sheep, hens, cows, Clydesdale horses and resident farm cats. The farmhouse is temporarily closed, but make sure to explore the gardens. We ask that you don't pet the farm animals, including our farm cats. Thank you.

Inside the museum

Follow the route around the museum galleries to uncover the story of Scotland's rural history.

Find out how rural home life, farming and the landscape have changed in 300 years. Discover stories of life on the land, learn how new inventions and technology have changed ways of working, and see Scotland's largest collection of tractors, combine harvesters and other farming machinery.

Shielings Café is open, serving a full sit-in menu and takeaway options.

Our Garden Detectives gallery is temporarily closed, but there's still plenty for families to enjoy. Get up close to nature with our new magnifying posts, and try out our family trails with information and activities for all ages. Head off on Clyde's Museum Adventure or follow the new Willow Sculpture Trail on a walk to the farm.
